ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A hyper-media information providing method comprises acquiring object region information items corresponding to object regions appearing in a motion video and relevant information items concerning the object region information items, reconstructing the object regions corresponding to the object region information items, displaying the reconstructed object regions in list form, selecting an object region from the object regions displayed in list form, and displaying a relevant information item concerning the object region selected.